Thomas International Recruits New London Team

Thomas International, a global provider of management systems and business assessment tools, has recruited a dedicated team of consultants to operate in the central London. A team of initially six consultants will be based from Thomas' London office in Covent Garden.

Martin Reed, CEO Thomas International, comments "Thomas is committed to providing clients with outstanding levels of service and the creation of a dedicated London team will ensure this continues. London plays a vital part in our business strategy which is why we have invested heavily in the region over the last twelve months. The new team will also be able to respond more effectively to the business opportunities which present themselves within this region. We are looking to expand this team to 15 over the course of the next year."

Rod Cornwell, London Regional Director, comments "Whilst we have always had consultants in the London region we have never had a team specifically dedicated to looking after them. Demand in London is such that more and more companies are looking to take advantage of the comprehensive range of services that Thomas provides. We now have a dynamic and driven team to respond to this."
