Thomas International Announces New London Training Centre

April, 01 (Marlow) - Thomas International, a global provider of on-demand management systems and business assessment tools, has opened a new Training Centre at its central London office. The Centre, officially opened today, will be used as a venue for events such as public courses, seminars, work shops and user groups.

Thomas' on-demand behavioral, aptitude and ability tests analyze people's style at work, identify their strengths and limitations, and help measure their mental agility. All users receive comprehensive training on how to apply and use Thomas' software-as-a-service (SaaS) business tools, delivered via an experienced team of trainers. Thomas is able to offer a large range of dates and locations in every country we operate in.

Public courses available include Personal Profile Analysis (PPA) Practitioners Workshop Level 1, Advanced PPA and Tests for Selection and Training (TST).

Martin Reed, CEO Thomas International, comments, "Thomas is committed to providing clients with outstanding levels of service and this includes providing state of the art training facilities for all our public courses. The venues we have previously used in London have been fantastic but the Training Centre at our newly re-furbished London office allows us to deliver even better facilities to clients. Centrally located in Covent Garden, the centre offers high quality training in a convenient location."

Reed continues, "London plays a vital part in our business strategy which is why we have invested heavily in the region over the last twelve months. 2005 saw the creation of a dedicated team of London consultants to respond more effectively to the needs of clients and respond to the business opportunities which present themselves. We are looking to expand this team to 15 over the course of the next year."

Thomas can also offer the Training Centre as a venue to other companies and it can be hired out at a cost of £450 per day, including tea/coffee. Recommendations can be made for a range of catering options.
